

SecondOpinions.com is Giving Consumers More Control Over their Healthcare and its Costs.

Boca Raton FL, November 20, 2014 — Michael Yuz, MD, MBA, Founder and CEO of SecondOpinions.com, a division of USARAD Holdings, Inc., notes during a recent interview, “U.S. healthcare spending is out of control. This is despite many efforts to resolve the problem, including the Affordable Care Act.” Dr. Yuz continued by pointing out, “Billions of dollars continue to be spent on antiquated, inefficient health practices and misdiagnoses.” SecondOpinions.com’s segment will air on Bloomberg International at 7:30am GMT (as pd. prog) on November 23, 2014. In response to a question concerning how to address this growing problem, Dr. Yuz replied, “SecondOpinions.com serves to provide a comprehensive solution to many healthcare issues in the U.S. and globally. We connect consumers with top physicians in all medical specialties and partner with both medical centers and insurance companies.”

Lorna Backhaus, Chief Business Development Officer of SecondOpinions.com, adds, “Active consumerism is now a major element of receiving proper healthcare. Giving access to proven and accepted second opinion services is providing consumers with significant control.”

SecondOpinions.com serves as a global telemedicine and teleradiology platform to provide medical consultation and second opinion services in all areas of medicine. Customers from over 40 countries have received second opinions from its U.S. based physicians.

SecondOpinion.com’s unique approach has been featured on more than 50 television stations and in major U.S. markets from Los Angeles to Chicago to Washington, DC.

In his concluding remarks, Dr. Yuz summarized his company’s services by pointing out, “SecondOpinions.com has a seasoned and talented management team committed to providing solutions to improve health outcomes and reduce medical costs. We achieve that with highly trained physicians who utilize our revolutionary telemedicine approach, use of unique ideas, innovative technology, and intellectual property that includes multiple registered trademarks and patents.” To learn more about SecondOpinions.com tune in to Bloomberg International (as pd. prog) on November 23, 2014.
